Table of Contents

We Don’t Save It for a Rainy Day
Natalie Neptune................................................................. 15
   Natalie looks for teens who are responsible with their money and ends up disappointed.

Why Do We Love Labels?
Patricia D. Rogers ............................................................ 18
   After seeing a boy teased for not wearing the latest sneakers, Patricia reconsiders her attitude about high-priced name brands.

Confessions of a Shopaholic
Jeremiyah Spears............................................................. 22
   Jeremiyah struggles to get his spending under control before he leaves the foster care system.

I Shopped Until I Dropped…Into Credit Card Debt
Xavier Reyes ................................................................. 26
   Xavier racks up $2,100 in credit card debt before deciding to take control of his finances.

I Keep My Bling in the Bank
Jarel Melendez............................................................... 30
   After getting his first paycheck, Jarel learns that banks aren’t just for rich people.
A Guide to Drama-Free Banking
Chantal Hylton ........................................................................................................ 34
Chantal describes both the benefits and pitfalls of having a bank account.

The Basics of Account-Ability
Darnise Gilbert ........................................................................................................ 37
A financial planner provides sensible advice on spending money wisely.

Counting Pennies
Jeremiyah Spears and Shahim Scott ................................................................. 40
The writers interview a graduate student to find out how she gets by on a small budget.

Countdown to Independence
Giselle John ............................................................................................................ 43
As she prepares for financial independence, Giselle works to save $5,000.

The Designer in Me
Melissa Oliver ......................................................................................................... 48
Unwilling to spend $50 on a designer T-shirt, Melissa starts making her own clothes.

Secondhand, First-Rate
Anita Ames ............................................................................................................. 52
At first, Anita is turned off by the idea of buying secondhand clothes, but getting brand-name clothes at bargain prices wins her over.
Swap and Save
Anita Ames ................................................................. 55
Anita participates in a clothing swap and gets a new wardrobe for free.

Pushing Poetry
Miguel Ayala ............................................................... 58
Miguel starts writing to express his pain, and ends up making money by selling his poems.

A Bad Deal
Anonymous................................................................. 63
Homeless and broke, the writer tries drug dealing. He eventually realizes that sleeping in a park is better than being manipulated and scorned.

Don’t Follow the Leader
Anonymous................................................................. 69
Because she’s grown up poor, it’s difficult for the author to believe that success is possible.

McDonald’s: Planning for Your Future?
Charlene Carter........................................................ 74
Charlene describes how teens can get stuck in dead-end, minimum-wage jobs, and offers advice on how to achieve more.
No Experience, No Job, Vice Versa

Shaniqua Sockwell ........................................................................................................78

After unsuccessfully pounding the pavement for months, Shaniqua decides that a college degree is the only ticket to a decent job.

Job-Hunting Tips

Shaniqua Sockwell ........................................................................................................82

A youth employment specialist gives advice on basic job hunting skills.

Finding Money for College: Where to Begin

Janill Briones ..................................................................................................................86

Janill explains how to apply for federal student aid and scholarships.

Take Charge of Your College Bills

Marci Bayer ....................................................................................................................88

An expert provides tips on managing college finances, from student loans to credit cards.

The Rags to Riches Myth

Marco Salazar ..................................................................................................................92

The recession of 2008-2011 is the latest setback for Marco’s father, an immigrant who hoped to find financial stability when he came to the U.S. 20 years ago.
A Dysfunctional Love Story

Jan Nicole Garcia

Michael Moore’s documentary Capitalism: A Love Story encourages people to fight for economic justice.

Welcome to the Great Recession

YC Staff

A cartoon explanation of the economic downturn.

Getting by on Crayon Money

Diana Moreno

Diana feels ashamed that her family is on welfare—until she sees what it’s like to pay bills.

In This Game, the Rich Get Richer

Melissa Oliver

Melissa describes a board game that teaches teens about the economic injustices that exploit their neighborhoods.

Movin’ On Up

Hattie Rice

Growing up in the ghetto, Hattie doesn’t know another world exists until she moves to a better neighborhood and realizes she can achieve much more in life.
Using the Book

Teens: How to Get More Out of This Book ..................... 118
How to Use This Book in Staff Training ......................... 119
Teachers & Staff: How to Use This Book in Groups ............ 120

Credits ........................................................................ 122
About Youth Communication ......................................... 123
About the Editors ......................................................... 126
More Helpful Books from Youth Communication ............. 128